"We are delighted to be recognized by the prestigious industry body, NASSCOM, for our efforts on diversity," said NV 'Tiger' Tyagarajan, president and CEO, Genpact. "Diversity is part of the DNA at Genpact and is integral to the company's ethos. Globally, companies across industries need to evolve quickly and drive inclusivity to remain competitive."

Genpact constantly strives to promote gender inclusivity in the organization, and is proud of the fact that approximately 40% of its entry-level positions and 18% of its leadership positions are filled by women. The company is relentlessly working towards increasing the number of women leaders in the organization, through various initiatives and outreach programs, including sponsorship programs and a work-life balance program including work flexibility options.

According to Piyush Mehta, senior vice president, HR, Genpact, "Our people are our greatest asset, and we believe that to be successful we must find ways to enable full utilization and recognition of all our employees. We have instituted flexible and innovative people practices to remove obstacles people may face. For example, work from home is just one of our solutions that enables employees to balance their personal and professional priorities."
